Three top tips of information security

Smartphones and computers are useful tools, but on the other hand they face many dangers such as becoming infected with computer viruses. Remember to obey the three top tips of information security to ensure safety and security when using computers and smartphones.

Information security measures can be likened to fastening our seat belts when we go out in a car, and it's something we must not forget when we use a computer or a smartphone.

1. Handle important personal information with care.

2. Protect your computer with the latest security updates.

3. Don't access suspicious websites or unfamiliar emails.
